“Making disciples of Jesus Christ while we wait for His return”

August 2018

Glyndon & Ulen MN

From Pastor Lloyd ...

Dear folks at Maranatha,

I hope you are all finding some time this summer to soak up some of the awesome views in God's creation that surround us this time of the year, as well as some time away from routine, to refresh your relationships with family, friends and the Lord!

Today is my first day back after a week of vacation that included 3 days of solitude by a lake, a couple days at home in Moorhead with my family, and some days back where I grew up, taking in McVillage Days (and running into some folks I haven't seen in a loooong time), hanging out at my mom's, and with a few relatives and others from my home church. I came away with a fresh appreciation for the upbringing I had back in days where some things were simpler and some other things were a whole lot more work!

I did some reading in Scripture and other sources during those days at the lake that may lead to my next sermon series (I'm still thinking and praying about that!). Christianity Today magazine carried an article that got me thinking as well, titled – Holy Inefficiency in A Digital Age, (Christina Crook).

The article challenged readers to consider how our digital technology both helps and also hinders relationships. We are more connected than ever before through Facebook and texting etc., and yet less connected as well. These technologies allow us instant connection with people clear across the globe! Yet they also allow us to control those connections so much that we in our efficiency close people out or hold them at a distance. This is part of the cause of increased loneliness and depression in our society today. (We have all observed times where we walk into a room and everyone is looking down at their smart phone and not wanting to be bothered!) I was challenged to be more deliberate in face to face contact with family, neighbors and parishioners, noticing those around me and inviting conversation.

What follows is a quote from this article:

Every meaningful relationship in our lives is based on a mutual dependency. Lovers. Parents and children. Neighbors. Yet our centuries-long aim has been to erase our dependencies. Instead of fading away, though our dependencies have just shifted: from people to technology. We don't want to be a bother to others; we don't want to embarrass ourselves by asking a "stupid question," so we Google. We don't bring our needs to our neighbors, like borrowing a shovel or two cups of flour; instead we tap Amazon Prime.

As our dependency on technology increases, our reliance on others disappears and so do the expected and unexpected intimacies that come with it. But those intimacies are the stuff of life. Jesus knew this. He cared so much about being human that he became human. He chose to embody the limits of humanity, put himself in the middle of a depressed colony in the Roman empire, and saved the world in the most holy, inefficient way. He said no to the temptations of ease when provoked in the desert. As Christians, how have we been co-opted into society's push for productivity over presence, and what have we lost in the process?

As a congregation we can and ought to use digital technology to make information available regarding our ministry activities, and to contact each other. At the same time let us be willing to be counter-culture and look for ways to connect face to face with people inside and outside of our church walls. There is something about a warm handshake, a hug, and smile that just can't be fully duplicated on a screen!

<sup>34</sup> "A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another, even as I have loved you, that you also love one another. <sup>35</sup> "By this all men will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another." (John 13:34-35)

Not in a hurry for summer to be over, but looking forward to connecting face to face more regularly with all of you when our fall schedule begins!
