

FROM PASTOR RYAN...

THE HEART OF THE SOWER

MATTHEW 13:18-23

I'm a simple guy and I don't often "read between the lines" well. Maybe that's why Jesus' parable of the sower – along with His simple, black-and-white explanation that follows – is one of my favorites. After the parable is given to the crowds, Jesus decodes the parable for His disciples in private.

"A sower went out to sow."

If I close my eyes, I can imagine Jesus sitting in a boat beside the sea, teaching the crowds that are gathered on the beach. On a nearby hilltop, just in view of the crowd, is a farmer who is busy planting his crop for the season. Jesus captures that imagery to connect with the crowd.

Instead of sowing temporal crops like wheat or barley, the Sower in this parable plants an eternal Seed: the Word of God – or, as it's called in verse 18, "the Word of the Kingdom." We might summarize it simply as the Gospel. The Sower is spreading the saving message of Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

As He sows, some of the seed lands on the path. The seed has a hard time penetrating the well-trodden road, so it becomes food for the birds, who quickly snatch it away.

Some of the seed falls on tough, rocky soil. I don't think Jesus was picturing the fertile fields of the upper Midwest, where the occasional rocks need to be pulled out of the fields. Israel was, in general, defined by her rocky mountains and gravelly hillsides. Because they were shallowly embedded, the seeds scattered here would spring to life quickly – only to wither just as quickly in the heat.

Some of the seed is scattered among the thorns, among the thistles, among the weeds.

The gas lines on our street were recently replaced. This involved – to the delight of my young boys – tearing up part of our lawn with an excavator. When the work crew was done, they reseeded those areas of the lawn. Unfortunately, none of the grass seed they scattered sprung to life. Instead, I now have patches of thistles and dandelions that choke out any effort to plant grass.

There's a correspondence between the three "bad soils" and the trifecta of temptation: the flesh, the world, and the devil.

The devil (the enemy of both our Savior and of our souls) steals the seed that landed on the road. He is ever vigilant for any opportunity to twist and distort God's Word. He does not want God's Word to have any part in a person's life.

The world (the ungodly, unholy trends of culture and society) withers the seed that fell on the rocks through tribulation and persecution. As our culture and society drift further from a Christian worldview, attacks against Christians will become more prevalent, causing some to leave the faith and embrace a life of ease.

Our flesh (the old, sin-nature inherited from Adam) chokes out the seed that was scattered among the weeds through sinful desires and a hungering for mammon – the "stuff" we stuff in our lives in an attempt to find meaning and fulfillment.

However, as the Sower scatters His seed, some falls on the good soil, free from scavengers, rocks, and weeds. The result is what the farmer prays for every spring: an abundant harvest.

One of the tendencies Christians can have with this parable is to approach it with a legalistic or pharisaical attitude. “Be good soil! If you aren’t, God can’t save you or use you.”

Now, to be sure, we ought to pray that God’s Word would be well-received in our hearts and do His work in His way. However, if we stop there, I believe we miss two wonderful principles of this parable.

First, if we look at this parable through a legalist lens, we miss the process by which the good soil becomes good.

In order to be good soil for the Word to take root in, we must first be made into good soil by that same Word. The good soil of our souls isn’t something that we manufacture; it isn’t achieved by trying harder or being good. It must be produced in us by the Spirit working through the Word.

Apart from Christ, we are spiritually dead. Yet Jesus revives us and gives us life through His Word. It is He that enables us to bear fruit according to His perfect will.

Secondly, and most importantly, the legalistic approach misses the heart of the Sower who indiscriminately sows the seed of His Word.

In an age of computerized farming where no seed is wasted, the Sower’s haphazard tossing of seeds seems reckless. But this action displays the heart of the Lord. His Word isn’t made just for good soils – perfect people who can do no wrong. No, the Gospel is for all soils. The Gospel is for those who are hurting. Those who are fighting depression. Those who are grieving.

We don’t have to be perfect for Him to call us. He calls us as we are – oppressed by our enemy, drawn away by the world, and enticed by the flesh. His Word washes us, renews us, and refreshes us. May His Word bring about an abundant harvest in due time.

Pastor Ryan

Can you identify the speaker in each of these Biblical quotations? And better yet, do you know to whom they were speaking?

1. "Are you the king of the Jews?"
2. "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"
3. "Nazareth! Can anything good come from there?"
4. "I am the voice of one calling in the wilderness, 'Make straight the way for the Lord.'"
5. "How can someone be born when they are old? ... Surely they cannot enter a second time into their mother's womb to be born!"
6. "Do you understand what you are reading?"
7. "Three days ago I was in my house praying at this hour, at three in the afternoon. Suddenly a man in shining clothes stood before me..."
8. "I am the Lord's servant," ... "May your word to me be fulfilled."
9. "They beat us publicly without a trial, even though we are Roman citizens, and threw us into prison. And now do they want to get rid of us quietly?"
10. "This child is destined to cause the falling and rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be spoken against, so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed. And a sword will pierce your own soul too."
11. "Are you going to wash my feet?"
12. "Don't you care that my sister has left me to do the work by myself? Tell her to help me!"
13. "He has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David..."
14. "I see heaven open and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God."
15. "I am the good shepherd." 16. "Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this scroll, because the time is near..."
17. "I have heard many reports about this man and all the harm he has done to your holy people in Jerusalem."
18. "Send the people away so that they can go to the surrounding countryside and villages and buy themselves something to eat."
19. "If you consider me a believer in the Lord,...come and stay at my house." Answers found on page 9...
20. "...even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs."
